Important

The above editorial content is scheduled for use on <http://www.docmanage.com>, including case studies, white papers, how-to guides, technology articles, reviews, buyer's guides and special industry reports. Web sponsorships and custom-printed issues are by special arrangement. Content subject to change due to industry direction and is not limited to the topics above.

DOCUMENT MANAGEMENT is a digital medium. Our web site is continuously updated to reflect ever-changing trends and the technologies that drive them. We accept material submitted to docmanage@aol.com only. Please do not submit material via mail, fax, or to any other DM email address. We will not use it. Repeat offenders will be permanently added to our SPAM filter.

Submissions

Email material to docmanage@aol.com only. Content should be within the text body of the email message (no attachments). Our magazine is published in a blog format, so it is absolutely essential to include a link to your or your client's web page where the article or press release is posted. If the material is deemed appropriate, we will publish a description and a link to the article. If you do not provide us with a link to your material, sadly, we can not use it.

By design, <http://www.docmanage.com> drives traffic to your or your client's web site. Once we have linked to your article, please ensure that it remains posted at its original URL for at least one year. Submissions to us infer permission to publish and/or link to the appropriate material on your or your client's web site.

DOCUMENT MANAGEMENT reserves the right to refuse material that it deems inappropriate for its content or readership.
